EDITORIAL MUSINGS.

True Patriotism.

Once more Bourbon county is going to "go over the top." This time it will be the campaign for the sale of War Savings Stamps. It will be just another slap in the face of those treacherous, skulking German propagandists who have tried in vain to make the world believe that we were a close-fisted, money-loving nation, too miserly to give our dollars to the cause.

What a rude awakening it will be for those plunderers when they hear of the good work we have been doing, even here in the little county of Bourbon, and the little city of Paris! But, then, we will be there, and in the parlance of the day, "we will be there with our heads up and feet flying over the top." Wilhelm and his murderous gang will be sure to hear from old Bourbon and the State of Kentucky, and we wonder what the effect will be on that select assembly of Imperial Murderers, who wear the cloak of royalty, and have plunged humanity into such unspeakable sorrow.

This should be the spirit of our giving to the War Savings Stamp campaign in this county:

"We'll give, give, give. We'll sacrifice our last dollars, mortgage our homes, wear patched clothes and our last year's hats. We'll do all of this, and more, if necessary, for where is the comparison to what the boys in khaki and blue are doing in France to-day for us, our homes and our country. No, we'll not care if Miss Elizabeth Steele carries the campaign over another week, for we're going to subscribe, each and every one of us to the fullest extent of our ability. It will be for a world-wide mission of mercy. We are playing the greatest game the world has ever known. Our very lives and the lives of our friends, our relatives, our children, are at stake. So, just keep on asking us, Uncle Sam! Make your requests as big and as often as needed. We'll be there with the last cent. Our generous responses in the past to the Red Cross and the Liberty Loans have proven to your satisfaction that we'll arise to every call. Our constant prayers are centered on those heroes and heroines in France. We have gone into the game to win—and win we will—and we'll not stop until the Hun is driven to cover and our Bourbon county boys come home covered with glory and honors won on the battlefields of Europe."

The city of Paris and the county of Bourbon are but small patches on the great footstool called Earth, but thank Heavens, the way they have come up in the campaigns of the past have made them look to many of us as big as the city of New York, and as tremendous as the State of Texas. Now, all together, and let's make Miss Steele have to borrow the Coop & Lent circus motor trucks to carry the funds to the bank when the drive is over!

Many Men of Many Minds.

Every man has a different idea as to what should be done to win the war. This has been the case in every great event of the world's history. It only goes to show that no single way is sufficient. All we can do, then, is our own bit, having implicit faith in the wisdom of those men upon whose shoulders the real burden rests.

Many men are complaining because the breweries continue to run, while there is urgent need of the foodstuffs and other legitimate commodities. Other people are lamenting over the fact that large areas of rich lands are being used for the raising of tobacco, instead of using this same acreage for the raising of corn and wheat and potatoes. Still others are loud in their criticisms of the thousands of dogs that are kept and fed—and it is true that but few of these dogs are of any public value.

Governments are not all-powerful, and they hesitate to do many things that look like obvious needs to the average citizen. Personally, we can't see why the President shouldn't go ahead and mind his own business as well as the business of the country at large. But if he undertook to regulate all the things complained of there would be such an upheaval in the country that he would have very little peace. And especially would such be the case if he undertook to send agents all through the country to kill off all the dogs. Now, wouldn't there be a protest and a howl, not only from the dogs, but from their owners? You know it.

Some of the problems in this world that look really very small are in reality the very biggest ones. Gradually these things are going to be eliminated for the momentum of public sentiment is irresistible in the long run, though to the thoughtless observer there appears to be no movement going on.

The big moral of this editorial is—have confidence in the perception of heads of the Government, for their eyes are open night and day, and they are always watching. When the time comes to put the ban on any condition detrimental to our national life, it will be done and done thoroughly, too. There is an old saying: "They that govern must make the least noise. You see, when they row in a barge, they that do the drudgery work, splash and puff and sweat, but he that governs them sits quietly in the stern, and is scarce seen to stir."

Protect the Baby.

The season has arrived when babies have begun to drink fly poison and roll in sticky fly paper in intervals of falling into carelessly placed tubs of water.

Families with babies have no business using fly poison. Little legs are active, little hands reach for everything and little mouths think the world was made to taste. Fly traps and sticky paper are safe, and they will do as much as poison in eradicating flies. The baby who knocks down a fly trap does no damage and if he experiments with the sticky paper he is only fit for the bath tub. But the baby who drinks fly poison seldom lives to profit by the experience.

All To The Good.

While all the world is tops-a-turvy, jerky and panicky, we hear of but mighty few farmers making assignments. And while they often feel they are oppressed of the nation, yet, after all, how little they know of the sudden reverses of fortune, from wealth to pauperism, and a struggle for life in the uncertain speculative world. They are the "reserves" which the army of the nation can drop back to and start anew to victory.

Automobile vs. Team.

Some complaint has come regarding the giving of half the road in case of an automobile coming up behind a team. The parties claim that when they come up behind a fellow with a team he stubbornly refuses to give any of the road, no matter if there is plenty of room to turn out. Now the law recognizes the right of both the man with the team and the man with auto, and these rights should be respected. There are plenty of men who are running autos who should be driving ox teams and vis versa, but all men should not be treated that way. The law says that when a man is overtaken by a faster vehicle, the man driving the slower vehicle shall turn out and give half of the beaten path.

Now, All Together!

There should be no faction in our little city. There should be a mutual interest in property of our people. When we see indifference to the well being of its citizens, we see a town all wise men shun. Success and failure are each a part of life and often those who have made the hardest fight are vanquished in the race.

We know a man who worked hard for several years, had saved a little money, and invested it in a concern which promised thirty per cent. dividends, but which is now owing money. Hard luck, eh?

DO IT NOW.

Paris People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a Paris case:

Mrs. Chas. McCord, S. Pleasant St., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times, getting them from Oberdorfer's Drug Store and I have found them a splendid medicine. Whenever my kidneys have acted irregularly or my back has been weak and lame, I have found a box or so of Doan's Kidney Pills has been sufficient to cure me of the attack."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McCord had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)
